PROUD OF THEIR SOUTHERN COLLEGE. THE ALUMNI OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA EX-TOL ITS USEFULNESS.

There were fifty graduates of the University of Virginia and their invited guests at the fourth annual dinner of the New-York alumni association of the ancient institution at Clark's restaurant in West Twenty-third-st last evening. The following officers for the ensuing year were re-elected: President, Francis R. Rives: first vice-president, William Aiexander; second vice-president, Virginius Dabney; secretary and treasurer, Robert L. Harrison.

Mr. Dabney acted as toast master and among these present were Professor Richard W. Venable, H. R. Gordon, John S. Wise, Charles Steele, R. L. Harrison, Dr. A. Emmett, W. T. Daniel, who organized the association; Dr. George S. Harrison, Linden Kent, of Washington; Dr. J. Harvey Dew, Dr. S. D. Powell,

If we have a few men among us who are not of the University of Virginia they are men whom we are proud to have with us. We are giad to see them. I am giad to see rou. You are giad to see me. We are giad to see each other. Everybody's giad. I hope you have all been successful this ast year. If you have not—" [A voice. "Then call on Dab-

Mr. Dabney in conclusion proposed "The University of Virginia—its future success," and called upon John 8. Wise, recently candidate for the ofce of Governor of Virginia and formerly member of Congress, to respond. Mr. Wise said that twenty years had passed since he was a student at the university, and when he was a there he took a great interest in everything that did not require much study. [Laughter.] He believed in the course of training at that institution. He had five bove growing up, and he was about to send the two eldest to the University of Virginia.

Professor Richard M. Venable expressed his confidence in the institution that they delighted to honor. He said he was willing to admit that when her students went out into the world they were not equal to the students of some other colleges in some respects. The Columbia College students were more finished crators and their daily access to the best daily newspapers in the country gave them advantages in regard to general information, but he believed in the thorough training which young men received in the Virginia college, and that in the long run that thorough ness would be found of the greatest usefulness.

MR. CONNOR RELIEVES MANAGER LOCKES TWO SOULLESS CORPORATIONS EMBARRASS THE NATIONAL OPERA COMPANY.

OMAHA, April 13 (Special).—The twenty-nine cars used for the transportation of the National Opera Company and its baggage, left this city for San Francisco at 8 and its baggage, left this city for San Francisco at 8 o'clock last evening over the Union Pacific after having been detained here for twenty hours, under somewhat embarrassing circumstances. The company completed its engagement here last night and prepared to start for San Francisco immediately after the performence. The Union Pacific officials, however, refused to permit the train to be moved without the payment of $8,400. W. C. Hayes, of Chicago, Western superintendent of the Wagner Sleeping Car Company also notified to Manager Charles E. Locke that his cars were to be moved only on Charles E. Rock that the case when the payment of $2,000.

A local capitalist agreed to stand good for the debt to the sleeping car company. Manager Locke, at 4 o'clock this afternoon received a dispatch from Washington E. Coanor, of New-York City, whom he had informed of the trouble, authorizing the Union Pacific road to draw on him for the amount of its demand.

DR. HAMMOND LOSES TEN BONDS.

An advertisement appeared on Tuesday and was repeated yesterday in a somewhat different form, offering a handsome reward for a "blue envelope, containing ten railroad bonds, lost between Reade-st. and West Broadway, and Bond-st. and Broadway." The finder is requested to return this envelope and its contents to the address upon it. That is probably No. 43 West Fifty-fourth-st. the house of Dr. William A. Hammond, on whose behalt the reward is offered. Dr. Hammond called on Tuesday at the Poice Headquarters and reported his loss. A TRIBUNK reporter found yesterday that Inspector Byrnes had forbidden the doctor talking about his loss, least of all to reporters. He declared that, in obedience to his lastructions, he had refused information to all reporters. DR. HAMMOND LOSES TEN BONDS.

A BALL IN AID OF A CHARITY.

A ball took place at Delmonico's last evening in aid of the Orthopædic Hospital and Dispensary for Sick Childthe Orthopædie Hospital and Dispensary for Sick Children. More than 250 guests were present when the ball was at its height. The ball-room was simply decorated, all lavish expenditure having been avoided. The guests were welcomed by the Ladies' Reception Committee, consisting of Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts, Mrs. Elliott Roosewelt, Mrs. Levi P. Morton, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, and Mrs. Levi P. Morton, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, and Mrs. W. W. Aster. The duties of the Picor Committee were performed by Woodbury Kane, T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Philip Miller, Thomas Hischeck, John P. AMATEURS SING "THE CHIMES OF NORMANDY." The performance of "The Chimes of Normandy" at Miner's Theatre in Newark last night, under the Episcopal Church, was well attended. The disagreements among the lady managers served to advertise the performance, and as high as $10 was paid for single seats. The performance was in aid of the Girls' Friendly Society of Trinity Parish. In consequence of the disagreements ten young ladies withdrew from the chorus, and others were substituted. The chorus was composed of twenty-eight ladies and thirty-three gentlemen. The music was directed by S. A. Ward, and the stage by A. C. Mann. All the costumes, with the exception of those of S-polett and Germaine, were gotten up by the wearers, and were ten and a half inches from the stage. The chorus was prettily and appropriately attired, although diamonds sparkled in the cars of some of the peasant girls, and costly rings were plentiful. The orchestra was furnished from this city, and the instrumental music was faultiess. The female chorus had been carefully drilled, and sang well. The performance netted a large sum for the Girls' Friendly Society. Episcopal Church, was well attended. The disagree

A HOMOEOPATHIC COLLEGE BUILDING.

The commencement and other exercises of the Homoeopathic Medical College, which begin this aftermoon in Chickering Hall, promise to be unusually interesting. For some time the faculty, alumni and friends of the institution have been endeavoring to secure sufficient funds with which to put up a new college building. Their efforts have been successful, and to-day Dr. Allen, dean of the college, will announce that about $150,000, considerably more than half the necessary amount, has been subscribed. The precised structure will include a college and hospital building. The site has not yet been purchased, but it will be in the central part of the city. The college was started here about a quarter of a century ago. For the last dozen years or more it has been in the Ophthalmic Hospital Building, at Twenty-third-st. and Third-ave.

Thirty-nine men who hold in contempt the popular superstition concerning the number thirteen sat down to the dinner of the Thirteen Club last evening at Morell's. Several letters were read; among them was one from Arthur P. Mr. Austin wrote: "Owing to a superstition of some popularity connected with a member of your club which I am now endeavoring to dispet, it will be impossible for me to be with you this evening."

HOW TO USE CONVICT LABOR.

A PLEA FOR GREAT PUBLIC WORKS.

DR. SEAMAN'S PAPER BEFORE THE MEDICO-LEGAL DR. SEAMAN'S PAPER BEFORE THE MEDICO-LEGAL SOCIETY—CRITICISING CITY OFFICERS.

At the meeting of the Medico-Legal Society in the Hotel Buckingham last evening a paper was read by Dr. Louis Livingston Seaman on "Prison Labor and Public Utility." Clark Bell, president of the society, presented Dr. Seaman, with a reference to the study that he has given to prisons and prison labor, and the public attention that has been called to these subjects by Dr. Seaman's articles. The paper was followed with marked interest by the society and was afterward favorably discussed by the members.

cussed by the members.

Dr. Seaman spoke first of the growing recognition of the essential solidarity of society and showed that society disorders have vital relations with past, present and coming generations. As a practical outgrowth of the new ociology new measures are being established for the ad-ninistration of prisons and penitentiaries. The mistaken policy of making the prison population "colonies of chat-tels and slaves sold to the hignest bidder under a pestilent contract system " has been abandoned and under a better policy we may expect that the prisons shall cease to be propagandists of every social evil, where the State practically undertakes the criminal education of the dangerous classes. There is less of vengeance and savage instinct in current legislation, for it is felt that every man carries with him, even in the convict, all the latent possibilities of useful citizenship, and we are thinking of res-cuing that latent possibility. Dr. Seaman referred to the experiments at Elmira as demonstrations that the criminal classes need be neither payperized nor enslaved in the interests of justice, and declared that what can be ac-complished at the reformatory can be attempted at Blackwell's Island, Sing Sing and other places. The con-current judgment of prison associations is that the wisest employment for the criminal classes lies in the public service, as least likely to debilitate legitimate in dustries while it would prove most beneficial to the community. The projects supremely affecting the public well-being are sanitary and hygicule measures, Dr. Scaman said, and he then advocated at length the undertaking by the State of the project of supplying New-York and the inmediate towns along the Hudson River with water drawn from the Adirondack regions and using the prison convicts for the work.

The paper concludes as follows:

MR. WIMAN FAVORS NEUTRALITY. RINGING WORDS BEFORE THE CANADIAN CLUB-

ITS NEW OFFICERS. No. 12 East Twenty-ninth-st., last night, the subject was warmly discussed. It ended in an amendment to the constitution being passed, limiting the number of special members admitted, who have not been residents of Canada or who are not British born, to one hundred. And not one of this hundred is to be allowed to hold office or to vote. The idea of this is to maintain the Canadian characteristics of the club. The annual report showed that there are now 600 members. The new officers elected were Erastus Wiman, president; Sir Roderick Cameron, John Paton, T. W. Griffith and George M. Fairchild, jr., vice-presidents, and Jackson Wallace, secretary and treasurer. The president's address was devoted almost entirely to The president's address was devoted almost entirely to the importance of their maintaining a neutrality, as a club, upon the questions now being discussed between Canada and the United States. Mr. Wiman said that in this discussion it was clear that the Canadian Club would have to take a part from the peculiarity of its position; but it should hold a position of such strict impartiality that no fault could be found with it. It was a patent fact that early and prompt action was essential for the adjustment of the differences existing between the two countries, differences that by delay would become more and more serious. A suggestion had come from the Americans themselves, that a full reciprocal relation in trade matters should be created which forever should settle tho fishery question which, like Banquo's ghost, rose periodically to disturb the peace—but that, by opening up the markets of each country for the other for all natural and manufactured products, a great and permanent advantage would come to both countries. In Canada, the fear that annexation would result from full commercial union naturally provoked a great deal of discussion. There was also in Canada a strong belief that a complete interchange of natural and manufactured products would result disastrously to the young and promising manufacturing interests of the Domision, and that existing commercial and financial relations with England would be complicated. In any case the Canadian Club must stand as an impartial body.

He was moved to say something further on the subject by the profound conviction that the present was a most critical period in the history of the connection between the two countries. It was almost impossible to overestimate what might occur in the next few weeks even. There must certainly be some justification for the armed interference with the peaceful pursuits of commerce. If the object sought was to secure for the concessions thus jealously guarded by Canada a compensation in money similar to that in the Halifax award, it oug the importance of their maintaining a neutrality, as a FIFTH AVENUE PROPERTY SOLD. The increase in the value of New-York property was shown at the Real Estate Exchange yesterday at the sale by R. V. Harnett & Co., of improved valuable property by R. V. Forty years ago Charles Shultz, one of the seuior members of the Exchange, attended the sale of this same property at the old Merchants Exchange Wall-st., when it realized only $2,500. Yesterday it sold for $414,000 to Charles Macrae. The property was first sold separately with the condition that it would afterward be put up together. The price realized was for the whole plot together. Mr. Macrae was only the agent. His principal was George H. Kent., it was reported that the purchase was in the interest of Cornelius Vanderbilt. It was reported yesterday at the Exchange that the Vanderbilt family has sold to Adams Express (ompany the Southwest corner of Fark-ave. and Forty-second-st. The identification claimed by ex-thief Yates, of Elizabeth, who asserted that the girl was a Swede named benswere, was yesterday disproved. There is great reluctance shown by the authorites to talk about the scar said to be on the body of the dead girl; but it can be stated positively that she has a mark, made by either a burn or hurt, which any one familiar with her would recognize. Jacob Elzel, owner of "Washington's Headquarters" at Broad and Pearl stat, thinks the girl is the wife of John Beil, of Reading, Penn.

The horses became frightened and plunged wildly, and in their efforts to free themselves, one of them tell to the ground, where it became tangled in the traces.

At this juncture Adam Sperzel of No. 409 East Seventy-lith-st. came down the drive behind a speedy animal. Mr. Sperzel did not see Dr. Shaw's cart until too close to pull his own horse in or to turn it from the course and just as the tallen animal succeeded in regaining its teet, Mr. Sperzel's horse ran into Dr. Shaw's carriage. Dr. Shaw and his wife were both thrown oddly from the vehicle. The doctor escaped with slight injuries and the shock from the fall, but his wife did not get off so easily. She fell to the ground with great force and lay senseless. Dr. Shaw made a hurried examination and tound that one of her limbs was badly injured from the knee down and that her side and back were bruised by the tall. Another carriage was called and she was driven quickly to their home.

The force of the collision threw Mr. Sperzel's hores from its feet and against a projecting rock, breaking its collar bone. By this time a crowd had assembled about the prostrate horse, which lay on its side moning and groaning and occasionally making frantic efforts to get up. There were a number of Park policemen in the crowd, but none of them appeared to know what to do. The owner of the horse held to the seat of his carriage when it struck against Dr. Shaw's and escaped being thrown out. After waiting nearly half an hour one of Mr. Bergh's men came to the spot and examined the suffering animal. He found that the collar bone had been broken. He shet the horse.

He will be looked at and identified by a large number of his victims to-day at Police Headquarters.

The tears were rolling down her checks, and she pointed to two empty bottles on a bureau. Vignaux picked them up and read the labels "chloroform" and "laudanum." You know why I have taken the drug, Louis," she said in a feeble voice. Vignaux, alarmed, ran down stairs and asked the proprietor of the hotel to ring for an ambulance. This the hotel man refused to do, and Vignaux went to the Thirtieth Street Station and reported the case. An ambulance was sent for from there, but when it arrived at the hotel, the patient had disappeared. Dr. Lines, the ambulance surgeon was put out of the hotel, and went back to the hospital.

THE FUTURE HOME OF RANKE'S LIBRARY. IT IS TO BE THE PROPERTY OF SYRACUSE UNI-VERSITY-ITS MERIIS EXTOLLED BY LIBRARIAN

this morning that the historical library of Professor von Ranke had been purchased for the Garrett Biblical In stitute at Evanston, Ill. The statement is wrong. The library is going to the Syracuse University. The purchase was made on behalf of the Syracuse University, however, by Professor Bennett, of the Evanston Institute, who was formerly connected with the Syracuse University and began the negotiations when connected with it.

University and began the negotiations when connected with it.

Librarian Poole said to-day: "Professor Bennett, who conducted the negatiation with Von Ranke's heirs, is now connected with the Northwestern University at Evanston. He was at Syraouse when he began to try to get the library. A rich man interested in the Syracuse institution offered to buy it, if it could be had, and Professor Bennett went to Germany and saw You Ranke. The historian was not then ready to dispose of his collection, but after his death, negotiations were reopened with his son. The result is that everything is now practically settled and the library will be brought over this summer. It is probably the best historical collection in the world and it will be a great acquisition to this country. It comprises 3,500 volumes and 75,000 pamphiets and is particularly rich in the history of the middle ages. Professor Bennett was here the other day to arrange for indexing the library. He does not Intend to 1-t it accumulate dust like the German collection on classical literature at Evansion, but it will be open to inspection by students.

The name of the giver is not known, but it is understood that one of the Kemington family which has made several valuable bequests to Syraouse supplied the money for the purchase.

The Senate passed Senator Fassett's bill permitting the Homopopathic Life Insurance Company to cease doing business and yet escape a receiver; Assemblyman Hornidge's bill for a free bath on the East River, New-York, between Forty-ninth and Fifty-first stat: Senator Murphy's bill declaring that bakers shall work only ten nours; Assemblyman Hagan's bill authorizing the Board of Fire Commissioners of New-York to increase to $3,000 the salaries of chiefs of battalions; Senator Griswold's bill extending to 1889 the official terms of the members of the Electrical Subway Commission of Brookl, n; and the bill of Senator Duly amending the New-York building law.

The bill extending the period within which the Poughk-epsic bridge across the Hudson River must be constructed would probably have passed the Senate traday it it had not been for the absence of Senator Hoysradt, therefore, did not press it, but he read a lutter from State Engineer Sweet rather approving the project, and stating that the bridge would nave the least objectionable position on the river. Secator Hoysradt said that he was confident that the space between the piers of the bridge—500 feet—was ample for vessels and fleets of canal boats. Senator Shoan said that the canal interests of the State were strongly opposed to the bill, but he did not know yet how he would occur, on it. Finally it was agreed that the bill should again be considered to-morrow.

THE GOVERNOR'S INCONSISTENCIES. HOW THE TERM "SPECIAL LEGISLATION" IS USED AND MISUSED.

ALBANY, April 13 (Special), —Governor Hill'sveto of the Crosby High License bill is largely based on the ground that it is "special legislation." This is a new discovery of the Governor's. It came upon him after he had received the High License bill. Ever since the Legislature met he has been signing special acts. He has signed up to to-day 146, at least 120 of which can be considered as "special legislation," judging by the rule set up by the Governor in the High License bill. The term "special legislation" seems to be an elastic one in his mind. It can be stretched to cover certain bills, or compressed the stretched to cover certain bills. to destroy others. Nearly every one of the nine bills "signed by him to-day was a "special act." They might have been disposed of by a general law, authorizing cities, towns and corporations to do certain things. But the Governor does not care if he is inconsistent so long as he pleases the liquor dealers. Below is a list of the last nine acts signed by him, to show the reader the large proportion of "special acts" that An examination of the laws of the year shows that nearly all of them are of this "ejecial" character. The Governor, it will be observed, has sought to dodge his re. nearly all of them are of this "special" enaracter. The Governor, it will be observed, has sought to dedge his responsibility in the matter by permitting many of these "special" acts to become laws without his signature. No less than twenty-three laws out of the 146 airrady in existence this year were not signed by him. A year ago he signed the Excise Mandamia act, applying only to the cities of New-York, Brooklyn and Buffalo. In principle it was the same as the Crosby High-License bill, for it picked out those cities for certain legislation. However, that bill happened to be in favor of the liquor dealers and the Governor signed it. Nine-tenths of the 681 bills sizned by Governor Hill last year were "special legislation" in the sense in which he votoed the Crosby bill. The first act signed by him this year was "special legislation". It was in relation to "election, election districts and inspectors of election in the town of Geddes, Onondaga County,' and it provided a method of electing the officers of that town, why did not the Governor insist upon the Legislature passing a general act giving the county boards of supervisors control over such matters!

There is an act suthorizing White's Bank of Buffalo to change its name. Why did not he insist upon a general act being passed in relation to all changes of names by corporational Then there is an act authorizing the New-York Building and Improvement Company to change its manner of electing its directors. Surely, there ought to be a general have providing for such trivial matters. Then the city of Rochester is graciously granted permission by the Governor to sell water to the Cooperative Foundry Company. Is not this "special legislation" As one turns the pages of the new laws in the Secretary of State's office, one sees that nearly every law is "special legislation." The Governor, however, saw no harm in "special legislation" until the Crosby bill came into his hands.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION. MR. ARNOLD'S BILL PASSED BY THE ASSEMBLY-STREET RAILROAD BUILDING.

ALBANY, April 13.—The Assembly mechanically debated to-day Mr. Arnold's bill for the election of delegates to the Constitutional Convention. It was well known by the Democrats that the Republicans intended to pass the bill as it stood. As a matter of torm, however, they offered amendments to it, which were duly rejected. The amendments rejected provided for the election of the delegates this spring and vided for the election of the delegates this spring and that the delegates should be elected under the Congressional district plan. Mr. Cantor offered the former and Mr. Greene the latter. Mr. Arnold showed that under the Congressional district plan the delegates would be elected in the districts gercymandered by the Democratic Legislature of 1883. As for the election of the delegates this spring instead of in the fall at the regular election that would involve the State in unnece-sary expense. The bill was passed by a vote of 71 to 39. Five Democrats—Greene, Mulry, L. S. Henry, Langbein, and Shea-voted for the bill with the Republicans. All the votes in the negative were east by Democrats.

The bill provides that 160 delegates shall be elected to the convention, 128 in the 128 Assembly districts, and 32 at large. No person is to be permitted to vote for more than sixteen delegates at large. This will divide the delegates at large between the great political parties.

Assemblyman Hamilton has a bill on the order of third reading in the Assembly torbidding the placing of more than one street railway track on any street north of Fourteenth-st., New-York, which is less than thirty-one teet in width. To-day this bill came up on the order of third reading. Mr. Hamilton thereupon offered the following anendment:

offered the following amendment:

And provided, further, that the Commissioner of Public or City Works, as the case may be, in any incorporated city of this State having according to the last census a population of 500,000 or over shall prescribe the pattern and kind of rail to be hereafter laid down and used by any street surface rail road in such city; and said commissioner may from time to time with the consent and approval of the Mayor of any such city require any street surface railway in any such incorporated city to remove its rails or any portion of them and any inplace thereof rails of the pattern and kind prescribed by him.

ar. Shea denounced the amendment as stealing his athunder." He said he had a bill which torbade the use of the centre bearing rail by the street railways of New-York. Mr. Hamilton had graeped this idea and put it in his bill. This was unfair and he called upon the Assembly to reject it. Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Cole informed the Assembly that the street railways of New-York were opposed to both Shea's bill and Hamilton's attendment. It would be the safest proceeding to pass immediately Hamilton's amendment and bill. The Assembly, however, induced by Mr. Shea's ap, cal rejected Mr. Hamilton's amendment, and the bill was laid on the tablo.

The Committee on Ways and Means of the Assembly rates with strange deliberation. To-day Mr. Erwin informed the Committee on Ways and Means that he had arranged for a hearing on the bill next week. Thus three weeks will have been fooled away. Meanwhile the final adjournment day comes nearer and nearer, and the telephone companies rejoice over the slow progress of the bill.

died on Tuesday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Richard H. Woods, No. 38 East Third-st. He was born on January 8, 1796, at White Plains, and was the son of Joseph Hart, who married Tamar Budd and was one of the early settlers of White Plains. When a lad of sixteen Mr. Hart came to this city and was a clerk successively in the dry-goods stores of Joseph H. Horton, in Chatham-st.; with Holly & Hubbard, in Division-st.; with James H. Guion, in Chatham-st.; with Robert & Burtis Skidmore, in Pearl-st., and with Underhill Halstead, in Pearl-st.

Mr. Hart then started in business as a dry-goods merchant on his own account and for many years was the proprietor of a store in Chatham-st. near Roosevelt, opposite the old Teawater Pump, a noted landmark of the Chatham-st. of former times. From this place Mr. Hart removed to No. 232 Bowery, where for thirty-five years he conducted business until acquiring a competence he retired. For seven years he was a member of the 3d Regiment of Unitorned Volunteers which Colonel W. T. Hunter commanded. Mr. Hart was a bachelor and for over fifty years lived with a sister, Mrs. William Close, and on her death made his home with Mrs. Woods, his youngest sister. One of his brothers was Harvey Hart, formerly receiver of taxes. Henry, James and Allen Hart were also his brothers. Mr. Hart was a stanch Federalist, Whi, and then Republican, and his last vote was cast fer Mr. Blaine.

The tuncral will be held to-morrow at No. 38 East Third-st., and the burial will be in Rural Cemetery at White Prains on Saturday.
